TITLE	Gender and pain
PROF.	Pasquale Sansone
SSD	MEDS-23/A
GENERAL AND SPECIFIC OBJECTIVES	Students are encouraged to know the origin and physiopathology of pain in all settings and kinds of patients. Gender medicine is a challenging field of study and research; it highlights gender-related differences from several points of view, hormonal, genetic and behavioral. All medical students should acquire a deep knowledge of complex exchange of messages and mechanisms originating from pain in men and women and their characteristics.
